

TEDDY'S POSITION

WILL BE MADE KNOWN WHEN HE ADDRESSES "MIXED" ASSEMBLY AT CONGRESS HOTEL IN CHICAGO TONIGHT.

(Herald Special.)

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Unless all predictions go astray political history of an important character will be made tonight in the gold room of the Congress Hotel, where Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will address a gathering of republican leaders representing the entire Middle West. It will be a "mixed" assemblage, inasmuch as it will include many of the most prominent leaders of both republican factions. That the ex-president will say things that will set the ears of some of his hearers a-tingle is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Colonel Roosevelt is expected to outline in vigorous language his views on the political issues now agitating the republican party and to set forth in unequivocal terms his position as between the "insurgents" and the "standpatters." Just what position the former president may take is, of course, unknown. It is believed, however, that the speech will be "progressive" in its character and will give aid and comfort, in one form or another, to the insurgency. How far the speaker may go in this regard, how much aid and comfort the insurgents will get nobody knows, but persons who know the former president say that he will leave not the slightest doubt in the minds of any of his hearers as to just how he stands on all of the republican party's burning political problems.

In expectation of an address of profound import the Hamilton Club, whose guest Colonel Roosevelt will be while in the city and under whose auspices tonight's banquet takes place, has sent out invitations to several hundred of the leading republicans of this section of the country. No political "color line" has been drawn. Speaker Cannon has been invited, as well as Senators LaFollette and Cummins. Among others who have been invited and the most of whom have accepted the invitation, are former Vice President Fairbanks, Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, Senator Gamble of South Dakota, Senator Borah of Idaho, Senator Warner of Missouri and Governor Davidson of Wisconsin.

Five o'clock this afternoon is the hour scheduled for Colonel Roosevelt's arrival in Chicago. He will be escorted by a committee which left this morning to meet him at Freeport, where he stops early this afternoon to deliver an address. At midnight tonight the ex-president is to leave Chicago for Cincinnati, where he is to speak at the Ohio Valley Exposition.

HERPICIDE'S MISSION.

It Takes Away the Dread of Birthdays.

Nothing is more annoying to men and women of middle age than to see those unmistakable signs of age—thin hair and grayness—approaching. But science has discovered that these conditions are no longer "unmistakable" evidences of old age, for the dandruff germ theory proves that even very young people may suffer hair loss, while those fortunate enough to escape the ravages of the scalp germ retain their abundant locks to a ripe old age. Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and removes the risk of appearing old before your time. Save your hair and your feelings, by using the genuine Herpicide.

GREATEST RAILROAD STATION IS OPENED

PENNSYLVANIA TERMINAL STATION COMPLETE AFTER SIX LONG YEARS OF WORK. BIG UNDERTAKING.

$159,000,000 EXPENDED

On Improvements, Which Will Allow the Movement of One Thousand Trains Daily Through the New Tunnels—Memorial to A. J. Cassatt.

(Herald Special.)

New York, Sept. 8.—The new Pennsylvania terminal station in this city, the largest and most magnificent structure of its kind in the world, to connect it with New Jersey on the one side, with Long Island on the other, were opened to public traffic today. The formal dedication of the station and tunnels took place about one month ago, but actual traffic through the tubes and in the terminal was not inaugurated until today. The event, which marks the beginning of a new and important epoch in the development of New York's transportation facilities, was duly celebrated in Manhattan, in Brooklyn, in Long Island City and other Long Island towns by enthusiastic popular demonstrations today.

The work of this gigantic undertaking, which was originally planned by the late Alexander J. Cassatt, then president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and which will constitute a lasting memorial to his name, was begun about six years ago. The construction of the tunnels under the Hudson and the East river was a remarkable engineering feat. The tunnels are continuous tubes of steel, nearly seven miles long, are lined with concrete and accommodate each but a single track.

The erection of the terminal station itself was a tremendous undertaking. Before the first stone of the masonry work of the building could be laid, which was on June 15, 1908, an enormous amount of work had to be done. About five hundred buildings, occupying the area bounded by Seventh and Eighth avenues, Thirty-first and Thirty-third streets, had to be torn down, the entire area excavated to a great depth and not until then could the actual erection of the magnificent structure be begun.

The New York station of the Pennsylvania railroad is the largest building ever constructed at one time, in the history of the world. It covers an area of twenty-eight acres, of which eight acres are taken up by the terminal building itself, the rest by the yards. The station is a beautiful structure built after the Roman-Doric style of architecture. It is constructed of pink granite, quarried at Milford, Mass., steel and brick, and is divided into three levels. The lowest part contains the tracks, which are fully forty feet under the street level and are reached by numerous stairways connecting the tracks with the waiting rooms and corridors, etc., on the ground floor.

The main entrance is in the center of the Seventh avenue facade, which extends 430 feet, but all four of the fronts are practically of the same design.

TUNNEL FIGURES AT A GLANCE.

Area of station and yards at Third Street, 28 acres. Length of trackage, 16 miles. Proposed initial daily service of Pennsylvania railroad trains, 400. Proposed initial daily service of Long Island railroad trains, 600. Length of river tubes (single track), 6.8 miles. Length of land tunnels (single track), 6.8 miles. Total cost of all improvements, $159,000,000.

sign, those on the Thirty-first and Thirty-third streets being 740 feet long, nearly twenty feet longer than the capitol in Washington. The maximum height of the building, above the street level, is 153 feet. From the street level the outside walls rise to a height of sixty feet, except in the center, where a lofty dome covers the general waiting room, which is 277 by 103 feet and is approached by a concourse 340 feet long and 210 feet wide.

At the corner of Eighth avenue and Thirty-third street there is an elevation of four stories, accommodating the offices of the railroad company. The interior structure is a skeleton framework of steel resting upon 650 concrete piers, each capable of carrying a load of 1600 tons. There are entrances on all sides, giving ample access to the monumental structure.

The main waiting room on the concourse is the largest in the world. It has windows of semi-circular shape, nearly sixty-seven feet wide at the base. In addition to the general waiting room there are smaller waiting rooms for men and women, which open into retiring rooms. The main waiting room contains the ticket offices, baggage checking windows, telegraph and telephone offices, etc., and everything is so perfectly arranged that all confusion is practically avoided. The trains may also be reached direct from the outside by means of wide stairs leading down from the street level.

MANY WERE TURNED AWAY

Airdome Not Big Enough to Hold the Third Night's Crowd of Popular Theatrical Company.

Manager's notice: Standing room was at a premium last night at the Airdome upon the third night's appearance of the Curtiss Comedy company here. The spacious capacity of the resort was taxed to its utmost long before curtain-rising time on the first act of "Out West," and after the performance had started many were turned away from the box-office, the management being unable to provide any more room within.

The company is making an excellent reputation here, and several written invitations, as well as requests, have been received by Mr. Curtiss to stay over another week with his company. Whether he will or not is yet to be decided.

The play last night, "Out West," pleased the big audience, and tonight an announcement is made that a musical farce comedy will be presented, "A Wild Goose Chase," as it is called. The story was written for "laughing purposes only," and is said to contain a hundred smiles, four hundred and fifty chuckles, five hundred laughs, two hundred and thirty-two roars and one broad grin, when epitomized this morning by the press agent.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty-five cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by Bratton Drug Co.
